

Accreditation and Designation Statement

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and Policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education through the joint sponsorship of USF Health and H. Lee Moffitt Cancer Center and Research Institute. USF Health is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

USF Health designates this educational activity for a maximum of 2 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Release date: October 1, 2008

Expiration date: October 1, 2009

Estimated time to complete this activity:
2 hours

Target Audience

This supplement to Cancer Control provides an update on the present status and new avenues to optimize the clinical outcomes of myelodysplastic syndromes (MDS) for oncologists and other health care professionals who treat patients with cancer.

Educational Objectives

After completing this CME activity, clinicians will be able to:

- utilize cytogenetic profiles, transfusion requirements, and modern classification scoring systems for diagnosing and categorizing their patients with MDS
- set appropriate management goals dependent on patient and disease characteristics
- choose and prescribe (or refer for) the most effective current management for all stages (ie, low-risk, high-risk, bridge-to-transplant, resistant) of MDS
- be aware of new approaches for active interventions for patients with MDS

Instructions

To receive CME credit:

- Read the articles, then complete the posttest answer sheet, registration form, and evaluation on page 52.
- Submit the answer sheet, registration form, and evaluation with the $15.00 CME payment. The posttest must be completed before the expiration date of October 1, 2009.
- Correctly answer 8 questions to receive 2 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Upon successful completion of the CME exercise, a certificate will be mailed to you.
